

TTnet - Training of Trainers Network

TTNET ANNUAL CONFERENCE

A review of achievements in the field of the training of trainers and the Community outlook

Brussels, 7 and 8 December 2000

Aims

The second annual conference of the Training of Trainers Network is being held in Brussels on 7 and 8 December 2000.

This conference is being held in a context marked by the contribution of the TTnet network to two Community initiatives: Training 2000 and the eLearning initiative. The end of the decade 1990-2000 also represents an opportune moment to take stock of developments in the training of trainers in the various countries and to identify paths which discussion and work could take at Community level. Thus the conference has a two fold objective: to take stock of the network's activities and lay down guidelines for the next three years; to place the network's expertise at the disposal of policy-makers at regional, national and Community level.

Thus the conference intends to bring together network participants and experts in the field to consider key issues in the professionalisation of trainers and to put practices into perspective, highlight conditions for transferability and to formulate proposals.

The following issues have been adopted for this conference: the validation of trainers' competences and qualifications, eLearning and the professionalisation of trainers, the achievements of the Community programmes in the training of trainers.

Principles for the organisation of the conference

A three fold approach will be taken to each theme:

1. Synthesis of the work of the network on the issue being tackled (network actors).
2. Papers intended to place the issue in the Community context (experts from outside the network).
3. Working groups on points prepared in advance by the rapporteur responsible for introducing the issue and preparing the final synthesis report.
